

Bolivia Dove Hunting Mecca!

Las Palomas Hunting Lodge is located in the heart of the Gran Chaco Boliviano.

This dove hunting mecca was designed to fit the expectations of the most demanding wing shooters. Millions doves and pigeons nest in Bolivia between April and November, seeking the main Bolivian crops.

Outfitters Jorge & Karin Molina

Las Palomas is a first class elegant lodge decorated with a spanish style roof, hand painted tiles, 12 double suites, with closets, impeccable private bathrooms, plus international phone services and free wireless internet. Hunters can relive the day's action over cocktails in the lounge or the large indoor Jacuzzi or a beautiful swimming pool surrounded by colorful gardens. The staff clean and safely store your guns in the gunroom each day free of charge. Hunters may choose a rental from the fine collection of Beretta and Benelli 12 and 20 gauge shotguns, as well as some left handed shotguns.

Guests will be delighted by the local and continental cuisine elaborated by the chefs led by Karin Molina.

Transportation services include a private plane for transport from Santa Cruz to La Palomas' private runway and a caravan of comfortable Suburbans, Land Cruisers and Sequoias for transport to the hunting grounds, where hunters experience unforgettable shooting with high quality RC shells, imported from Italy.

The Hunting: There are daily flights into Santa Cruz where the waiting 25 minute charter flight will land on the property allowing time for an afternoon shoot followed by 2-3 shooting days before one last morning hunt and an overnight at a 5 star hotel in Santa Cruz. Your return flight home will be the next morning.

Cast and Blast Special: Bolivia borders with Brazil and the rivers known as the Beni which are tributaries to the mighty Amazon. Peacocks ranging 3-8 lbs and other ferocious fighting fish can be found in great numbers. Jorge traveled these areas extensively and his Alaskan styled tent fish camp offers excellent top water and sub surface fishing.
